

SUKULU'S WILDLIFE IMMOBILIZATION COURSE

This 10 day course on Sukulu Reserve is a unique opportunity for veterinary students to get hands-on experience in wildlife veterinary work and being part of the white rhino immobilization team!

What?

An experience of a lifetime to work alongside wildlife veterinarians and conservationists in wildlife veterinary work and conservation projects. During this 10 day course students will gain technical knowledge and skills through theoretical lectures and hands-on field work in small groups of maximum 10 students.

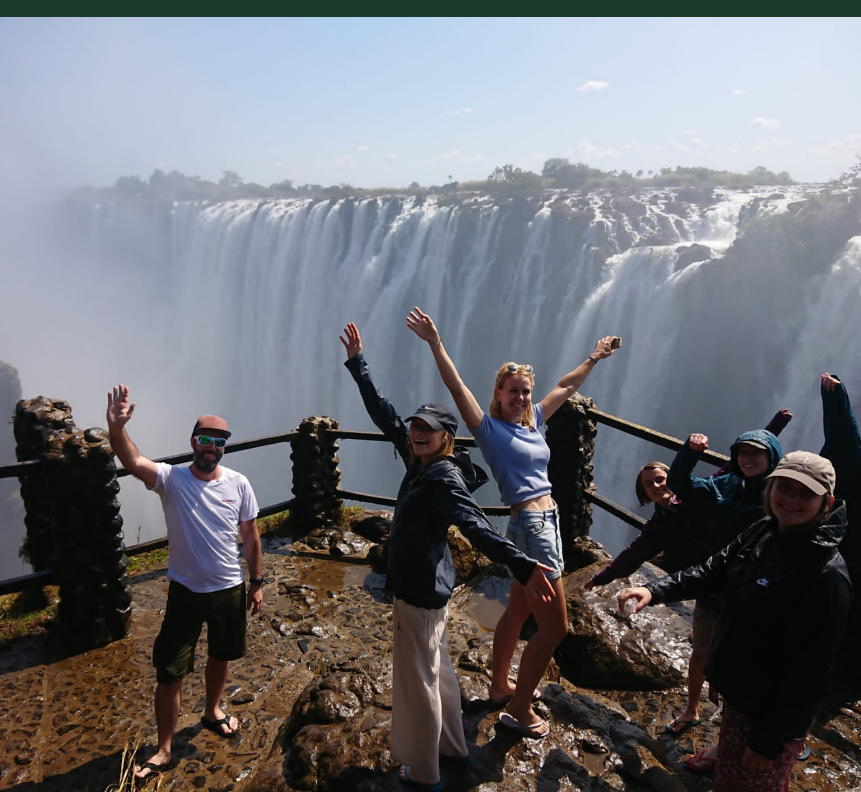

The aim of the course is to expose students to the behind scenes of veterinary wildlife practices and conservation, to learn about the immobilization and capture techniques used in various wildlife species and to work with endangered species in anti-poaching procedures. Besides the technical learning aspects, the course also allows for some leisure activities and wildlife viewing too, making this a complete African experience!

Who?

Students from any veterinary faculty in the world, and any year of study, are welcome to attend. The course is facilitated in English.

Where?

The course takes place on Sukulu Reserve, a 5000 hectares private nature reserve close to Livingstone in Southern Zambia. Surrounded by all kinds of African wildlife (including the endangered white rhino) you will get the full African bush experience. Sukulu Reserve is located only 50km away from the famous Victoria Falls (one of the seven natural wonders of the world)!
